

Y. DELEGATES TO SARATOGA UNBOUND

123 Chosen Last Night at Republican Unofficial Primaries.

88 WOMEN ARE NAMED

Mary Garrett Hay Chosen Despite Her Hostility to Wadsworth.

One hundred and twenty-three delegates and an equal number of alternates to the Republican unofficial State convention to be held in Saratoga next week were elected last night at unofficial primaries in New York county. Thirty-two of the delegates and thirty-eight of the alternates chosen are women.

Although there was some opposition to Miss Mary Garrett Hay because of her campaign against Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., she was chosen as a delegate from the Eleventh district. Among other women delegates are Miss Helen Varick Boswell, Laura Skinner and Mrs. John T. Pratt.

Mrs. Elvith Hill received the anti-Hay votes, which amounted to eleven out of a total of eighty-four. It was explained later that the persons voting for Miss Hay did not represent opposition to Senator Wadsworth; that she was chosen as a delegate because of her past service for the party.

Miss Hay telephoned from her summer home at Bearsville that she would have attended the primary except for the fact that her house was struck by lightning in the afternoon. No serious damage was done, however. David Ward Catts had an opposition ticket to that prepared by Robert P. Levin, leader of the Eleventh district, but he got only sixteen votes. Charles D. Hill, member of the National Committee, received all the votes in the district.

Former Gov. Charles S. Whitman is among the men delegates, as is Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Charles H. Hughes and former Postmaster Edward M. Morgan. Almost the entire roster of district leaders is included in the list of delegates.

The polls were opened in the various district club houses until 9 o'clock in the evening. In few cases were there contests, the delegates being chosen by general agreement among the Republicans of the districts.

COX MEN NOW FEAR TENNESSEE'S LOSS

Nominee's Stand on Prohibition One of Causes for Revulsion of Democrats.

Special to THE SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD, Washington, July 19.—The political situation in Tennessee, one of the States which make up the solid South, is causing Democratic campaign leaders much concern. It developed here today that the loss of the State, which is in the realm of possibility, would be a final death blow to any Democratic hopes that may still exist.

Tennessee, it was learned here today, is one of the Southern States Gov. Cox had in mind when he said last Saturday that he might make speeches below the Mason and Dixon line. The Democratic nominees said he would speak in this territory as a work of complacency. Unless conditions there improve from a Democratic viewpoint the "compliment" may develop into a real fight for votes.

The situation in Tennessee is also held responsible here for reports that Cordell Hull, Representative in Congress from that State, may be chosen Democratic national ticket. Hull's selection would help also in the effort to get the State to become the thirty-sixth to ratify the suffrage amendment.

Before Cox's nomination a high Administration official, whose home is in Tennessee, predicted that if the Ohio Governor got the convention prize he would have difficulty in carrying the State. It should be said, however, that the official was supporting another candidate at that time.

Another difficulty in Tennessee is the split of the Democrats on the League of Nations question. Senator Shields, it was recalled, was one of the Democratic members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee who supported the League reservation. The attitude of Shields failed of endorsement by the State organization, but it is understood here that Shields still retains his strength among the rank and file of the party. A further factor in the Democratic ranks is developing in an attack on Gov. Roberts.

President Wilson in 1916 carried Tennessee without a contest. With the party as it is now and with Cox far from popular, Democrats here fear their opponents may overcome this margin and put the twelve electoral votes of the State into the hands of the Republicans. The most hopeful of Democrats are figuring a majority of only a few electoral votes so that the loss of Tennessee's twelve would knock down even those calculations.

"Friendly" to Hugo.

Samuel S. Koenig, New York county leader, asserted that the delegation would go to Saratoga entirely unopposed to any candidate. He denied county leaders were for Francis M. Hugo, Secretary of State, although acknowledging there was much friendly feeling toward him. Nor were the delegates opposed to Nathan L. Miller, according to another story.

"We are not for or against any candidate now," said the county chairman. "We want first to get to Saratoga and find out what the leaders from up State, where the Republicans roll up big majorities, want. After we have been with them together and decided what we want we will be for. They call this a Democratic county, although I do not acknowledge it. It would be presumptuous on our part, however, to assume to dictate to other parts of the State the candidates who should be chosen."

New York county has a candidate for State Treasurer in the person of John J. Lyons, leader of the Nineteenth district. For that reason the leaders want to make any combinations or Governor before they get some idea as to who the successful candidate will be. Managers for others candidates have shown a disposition in the last few days to train their guns against Nathan L. Miller, who they think has been getting more prominence than he deserves.

WADSWORTH FIGHT GOES TO HARDING

Anderson of Anti-Saloon League Asks Candidate to Interfere in Local Contest.

FEARS LOSS OF STATE

Attacks Senator as Stubborn and Wilful in Stand on Prohibition.

In his effort to prevent the return to the United States Senate of James W. Wadsworth, Jr., William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, appealed yesterday to Senator Warren G. Harding. In a letter to the Republican Presidential candidate, Anderson asked Senator Harding to use his influence with the national leaders to have the Senator taken care of in some way where he would not have the power to weaken the Federal prohibition enforcement act.

Mr. Anderson said that the "wet" reputation of Wadsworth might bring the national ticket to defeat in New York State. If the Presidency should be lost through New York State it would be because the State management "would rather drag the party down to defeat wet than to have it win decent and dry."

The letter to Senator Harding reads: "United States Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., is being opposed for renomination and reelection by the Anti-Saloon League and by the organized women, who are practically unanimously committed to prohibition as their major issue, not to punish him for a lifetime record of servile allegiance to the brewers, though he ought to be punished for that, nor because he opposed suffrage, although his single vote in compliance with the vote of his own State and the request of the State Legislature and the State committee and convention has his own party would have insured the ratification of the prohibition amendment long before this, but because he persists in being a wilful, offensive misrepresentative, apparently unable to comprehend the difference between stubborn adherence to prejudice and courageous support of principle.

"Originally his campaign was predicated on the belief that he could carry enough support from the wet Democrats to offset what he lost from dry Republicans, but the nomination of a candidate for the Presidency by the Democrats, in connection with the adoption of a wide open wet State platform by Tammany, has outbid anything that Mr. Wadsworth can offer to the wet, so that he is left without compensation for the loss of the host of dry Republicans he has alienated.

"In our judgment Mr. Wadsworth cannot be elected if elected, and if the election is close this may carry down the entire Republican State ticket and perhaps the national ticket. The responsibility for this must rest upon the State party management, which joined Tammany in passing a nullification beer act favored by Mr. Wadsworth, and has guided into desperation and driven to drastic measures the moral element, which refused to allow the wet machine of this State to be more loyal to the liquor traffic than the friends of prohibition are to principles.

"It is not enough to say by using your influence with the national leaders generally to have Mr. Wadsworth taken care of in some manner that does not leave it within his power to vote to weaken the Federal enforcement act."

MURPHY GLEEFUL OVER COX TICKET

Tammany Boss Holds Court With District Leaders for First Time Since Return.

EVASIVE ON SENATE RACE

Says Report That He Has Picked Cockran Is News to Him.

There certainly was a smile on the face of the tiger as Charles F. Murphy, "boss" of Tammany Hall, leaned back yesterday afternoon in his chair in the historic old wigwam in Fourteenth street and contemplated the results of his handwork at the Democratic National Convention. It was the first time he had been at his desk to receive the district leaders since the nomination of Gov. James M. Cox for President.

"Well, Tammany Hall did make its influence felt at a national convention this year, didn't it?" remarked one of the visitors.

"I'll say so," was the reply, accompanied with a chuckle.

When he was told the general impression was that Gov. Smith would run for reelection Mr. Murphy nodded his head affirmatively.

"And he's made a good Governor, too," he added, "and it will be hard to beat him."

Asked if he would make any comment on the apparent concessions of Gov. Cox to President Wilson on the League of Nations, the Tammany leader grew dumb. Nor was the "Boss" at all communicative on the subject of the Senatorial candidate. When his attention was called to the story that he had picked Bourke Cockran he smiled blandly and said: "That's the first I had heard of it. It's interesting."

Mr. Murphy said he had heard Lieut. Gov. Harry C. Walker spoken of favorably by up-State leaders in the Senate race. He also acknowledged that he had heard something to the effect that George L. Quinn of Schenectady wanted to run for the Senate. Other names suggested to him are Delos M. Cosgrove of Watertown, Francis E. Cullen of Oswego, Norman E. Mack of Erie and Martin H. Glynn of Albany.

Mr. Murphy arrived in the city at 1 o'clock from Albany, where he had remained over Sunday with Gov. Smith. Asked if the Governor had spoken down with him, Mr. Murphy replied: "No, he's got to go to work now. I guess I will have to do the same." He pointed to a pile of papers on his desk and a long line of leaders waiting to have a word with him.

The Tammany leader expects to be at his desk most every day, except when he runs away to have a game of golf.
